RECONSTRUCTED
FEDERAL MINISTRY
Senator McLachlan To Be
Postmaster-General
MR. STEWART'S POSITION

MELBOURNE, November 7.
 Messrs. F. H. Stewart (Minister for Commerce), E. J. Harrison (Minister for the Interior), and J. Francis (Assistant Minister) have not been included in the new Federal Coalition Government announced by the Prime Minister (Mr. Lyons) today.

The personnel and distribution of portfolios are:—
 Prime Minister, Mr. J. M. LYONS.
 Minister for Commerce, Dr. E. C. G. PAGE.
 Minister for External Affairs and Territories, Senator Sir GEORGE FEARCE.
 Attorney-General and Minister for Industry, Mr. R. G. MENZIES.
 Vice-President of the Executive Council, Minister for Defence, and Minister for Repatriation, Mr. W. M. HUGHES.
 Minister for Defence, Mr. ARCHDALE PARKHILL.
 Minister for the Interior, Mr. T. PATTERSON.
 Minister for Trade and Customs, Mr. T. W. WHITE.
 Postmaster-General and Minister in Charge of Government Development, Mr. J. McLACHLAN.
 Assistant Treasurer, Mr. R. G. CASEY.
 Minister Without Portfolio, Mr. H. V. THORPE.
 Director of Trade Treaties, Sir HENRY GULLETT.
 Assisting Commerce and Industry, Senator T. BRENNAN.
 Administering War Service Homes and Assisting Minister for Repatriation, Mr. H. B. HUNTLEY.
 Honorary Minister in Charge of Royal Visit, Mr. C. W. C. MARR.

There are no surprises in the new Cabinet. It contains four Country Party representatives—the leader of the party (Dr. Page), the deputy leader (Mr. Patterson), and Messrs. Thorpe and Huntley. South Wales and Queensland respectively.

The new Ministers will be sworn in by the Governor-General, Sir John on Friday morning, and a meeting of the new Cabinet will be held immediately afterwards and will continue on the following day.

Tribute To Mr. Stewart
 In making the announcement of the new Ministry, the Prime Minister (Mr. Lyons) said that Mr. Stewart, in order to make the task of reconstruction more easy, had declined to accept the portfolio which had been offered him.

"He was offered a position," said Mr. Lyons, "and his action is typical of the type of the Government services which has always been his attitude during his association with the Government. It is to be seen the ambition of Mr. Stewart to organize a sound economic policy of the Government, and he has offered his services in a voluntary capacity to carry out this work. He accepted his offer, and he will continue to administer the re-employment program of the Government. He has always urged that the two non-Labor parties should combine, and he has always been prepared to efface himself in the background in order to express my very great appreciation to Mr. Stewart, who, though he will not be in a position to render further great services to his country."

Cabinet Sub-Committees
 Mr. Lyons added that Sir Henry Gullett, who will be in charge of the negotiations of trade treaties with other nations, would form, together with Dr. Page, Mr. Case, and Mr. White, a special sub-committee which would deal with all economic matters. Another group of Ministers, comprising Senators McLachlan, Sir Patterson, and Mr. Casey, would concentrate on the Government's re-employment scheme. Mr. Casey, as Assistant Treasurer and chairman of the Loan Council, would be in charge of the Government's borrowing.

Mr. Marr will leave the Ministry at the end of the Duke's tour.

Mr. Stewart's Status In The House

CANBERRA, November 7.
 Though not a Minister, Mr. F. H. Stewart is in charge of the Government's re-employment policy, which is one of a Minister's privileges in the House. Under the standing orders

House from the Ministerial table, and to all at the Ministerial bench, these being matters for decision by Ministers themselves, and not members. It will also be considered that Mr. Stewart to be questioned by members on any matter before the House of which he has charge.

F.R.C.S. EXAMINER
HERE TODAY
50 Candidates For
Surgeons' Top Degree

Professor G. A. Buckmaster, who will conduct primary examinations in Australia and New Zealand for Fellowship with the Royal College of Surgeons in England, will reach Adelaide by the Strathaird today. He will be met by the president of the Royal College of Surgeons in Australia, His co-examiner, Mr. Gordon Taylor, New Zealand, and is continuing his journey to Australia from London, and is holding the degree in the world at present.

Hilberto, candidates have had to go to England, and, if successful in the primary examination, will be between six months and a year to take the final. By increasing the examination fees by £25 it has been found possible to introduce a new scheme without loss to the college, and at the same time confer a great saving to Australasian surgeons. There are about 1,000 surgeons being examined in Australia, and the papers will be identical with those placed before surgeons in England.

The degree of the Royal College of Surgeons is regarded as the top notch in surgery, and is supreme in the medical world. There are about 1,000 surgeons holding the degree in the world at present.

W.E.A. LECTURES
 To The Editor
 Sir—In his letter of November 9, Mr. E. Wright has a vigorous tilt at something which he calls orthodox economics. He avers that the orthodox exists a gap between the teachings of the W.E.A. and the reality. This is hard to follow, because economics deal with what is, the reality of which we are acquainted with every lecturer on the subject since the inception of a close acquaintance with every thing which Mr. Wright evidently thinks they have not done. That is, they have placed the emphasis on the problems of consumption and distribution of the means of life in addition to the claims to life in addition to them. I challenge Mr. Wright to cite a single case in Adelaide, and I have given to W.E.A. students wherein I have failed to adhere to these principles. O. M. Sir, Sec.
 HAROLD G. O'LETT, Westbourne Park.

Old College Boys

"OLD Oxford" (Dr. W. G. Torr, of Brighton), writes:—"Dear Vox—Your notes on old grammar school and college boys bring many happy memories. By the same mail, your American letter I received one from Harry N. Holmes and Andrew Fairweather, who were dining together at the Hotel Pennsylvania, New York, which, by the way, has only 2,200 bedrooms and the same number of bathrooms. They send greetings to Way College boys, and thought affectionately of the old school and the old friendships. A short time ago three old Way boys met in South Africa and sent me their photo. Somewhere in North-West Australia an old boy wrote asking if he might know the name of the boy he knew at Way College in 1900. A New Zealand old boy sends a cheque for a college bursary to the same school, which had become a ladies' college. I was delighted to hear that the Old Way College Boys' Association are hoping to raise £500 for a scholarship in the Adelaide University."

MUSIC NOT AMUSEMENT, BUT EDUCATION

To thousands of misguided souls, music was solely one of the pleasures, recreations and unessentials, said Dr. Alex. Burnard, in an address last night to members of the Adelaide Music Society. The favorite pronouncement of these thousands was, "I know what I like, but they know what they like." The other hand, knew that what he sought was a great force, a constant and consolatory education, an ever-increasing pouring of beauty. Sir Wilford Dalain equally contended that music should contain equally the elements of life, nature and mystery. "We must cease to let manifestations of art and beauty be the only end," said Dr. Burnard. "We must learn by experience, not by guess each sweet thought artfully concocted by its creator."

NATIONAL UNIVERSITY
AT CANBERRA

The council of the Canberra University College has decided to start a University trust fund to establish a National University at Canberra. A report was recently made by the council to the Commonwealth Government recommending the establishment of such a university, but the Government replied that it was not in a position to do so. The Commonwealth Government is now urging public-spirited citizens of Australia to make donations, which may be sent to the Secretary, Canberra University College Council, Canberra. Particulars of the report made to the Government and of the council's recommendations, may be obtained from this source.

DECLINING PUBLIC INTEREST
 To The Editor
 Sir—Regret has been expressed at the falling off in the numbers of students attending the economics class. When the W.E.A. started its economics course, this was at the time when concrete goods were scarce and the streets were straggle up in the universities everywhere. This has been the result of the fact that the University teaching of economics and its "ineconomic laws" to say that it has caused the present world chaos would be absurd; but it is clear that the present world chaos is the result of the present world chaos. People are less interested in economics than in the universities, because it has failed to help the world, and it does not do much to make the individual student make more money, unless, of course, he gets a job as an economics lecturer or professor. Moreover, no one has the chance of getting such a job unless he is strictly orthodox in his views, or can skillfully give any orthodox views up his sleeve. So the subject has become the property of academics and bureaucrats of all kinds of superstitions.—I am, Sir, Sec.
