Extract from debate
of House of Assembly
29 Nov 1896

past were owing to the fact that insufficient money had been allowed. The Premier gave an explanation which was quite inaudible in the Press Gallery. Mr. Homburg, in referring to particulars of a case in the Lying-in Home at the Destitute Asylum, as given at a recent inquest, asked that Mr. Lindsay, the Chairman of the Destitute Board, should be requested to report upon the working of the present arrangement by which medical students of the University and house surgeons of the Hospital attended in the home during confinements. He was informed that University students—some mere boys—went down and made rude remarks while the women were in agony. (Premier—That would not be allowed.) He was not in the habit of making statements in the House unless he believed them to be true. He would give the Attorney-General his authority if necessary. (Premier—They will not be admitted if they cannot behave themselves.) His own impression was that they should not be allowed to go there. (Hear, hear.) (Minister of Education—They know how to behave themselves.) The Treasurer replied that the Government disbelieved that the students had been guilty of any such conduct as was represented. The telephone had been provided, and there was not likely to be a repetition of the occurrence. Mr. Solomon thought Mr. Homburg must have been grossly misinformed. The statements might have arisen from the jealousy of the Matron of the medical students. The accusation should be looked into. The hon. member should have brought the matter before the Hospital Commission, of which he was a member. Passed.
