

14<sup>A</sup> Broad Street,
Oxford.
24 October 1941.

Dear Professor,

Thank you very much indeed for your letter of October 22. I am greatly honoured by your offer of the post of statistical assistant to work under your direction, and happy at the possibility of returning to the Galton Laboratory.

A few weeks' rest appear to have completely restored my health to normal, and I imagine that—given an outline of the method and procedure required for the proposed task—I should be able to tackle it. What is the salary that Sir John is prepared to pay?

Yours sincerely,

R. S.H. Dysser.